It is in the nature of a trip of this kind to be flexible. The day-to-day agenda and ultimate goals of the trip should be taken as an aim and not as a contractual obligation. We are not responsible for delays or alterations that might be necessary during the trip, or expenses incurred due to flight cancellations, strikes, sickness, weather, war, quarantine, political closures and disputes, or any other reasons beyond our control.

On a trip of this nature it is necessary for you to abide by the authority of the leader, and other staff. Signing the booking form signifies your agreement to this. You will be told the group leader/s name/s at least eight weeks before the trip commences. We reserve the right to change the leader/s at any time and are in no way liable in respect of any change of the leader/s. If in the opinion of the leader your behaviour or physical condition is detrimental to the safety and welfare of the group as a whole, you may be asked to leave the trip without any right to a refund. Should we complete our objectives earlier than scheduled you may be offered the chance to leave the mountains early. Under these circumstances you will be expected to pay for meals and accommodation for any extra days that will be spent in towns and cities beyond those included in the original itinerary. Should you decide to leave the trip at any point after its commencement you do so entirely at your own responsibility and cost.

Medical vaccinations and other health arrangements are entirely your responsibility. You should consult your GP about this prior to departure.

You must have travel insurance that covers medical, rescue and repatriation costs for the activities we are undertaking. We will need to be sent a copy of the insurance policy before departure. We suggest that you take out insurance at the time of booking, as this will give you some cover should you have to cancel your trip before departure.

You will have to deal with a hostile environment including changes in temperature, weather and culture. There may be objective dangers and medical problems may occur linked to altitude and the lack of oxygen. This environment and living closely in a small group may generate stress problems for some participants.
